

For many reasons, I would urge you to NOT permit cellular use in flight. The close confines of an airplane coupled with folks tendency to raise their voice when they can't be understood on the other end will lead to increased tension on the plane. Flight time is one of the last arenas where we don't have to deal with the added noise, poor ettiquete, and lack of respect for others so common with cell phone use. Please continue the ban!

Marshall Fernholz